President Mubarak Orders Urgent Aid to Haitians

January 19, 2010

Today, President Hosni Mubarak gave orders to the Egyptian Government to send urgent medical relief to Haiti, following the devastating earthquake of January 11.

Egyptian humanitarian and medical relief will be sent in coordination with the international community's efforts to provide aid for the victims in Haiti.

Foreign Minister Ahmed Aboul Gheit placed several calls to his Latin American counterparts to discuss the most efficient means to deliver relief. Aboul Gheit is currently urging Arab countries and members of the Non-Alignment Movement—currently chaired by Egypt—to provide medical and humanitarian relief to the people of Haiti.
